PRESIDENTS CHALLENGE

Well gals and guys, we certainly out did ourselves with the egg and eggcup challenge. Definitely a lot of chickens went to work to produce that wonderful array of eggs. Ian Fulford won the draw of a gift certificate, donated by Bow River Craft Woods (Murray Sluys)

Our challenge for February is a small-lidded bowl. Let's see if we can produce something different.

Don't forget!!!! We are now going to meet at Yale Secondary School every 2nd Thursday of the month. Mark new date on your calendar. Next meeting is Valentines evening, February 14th, 2002.

“Fraser Valley Woodturners Trophy”

Trophy inscription: Thanks for sharing your friendship, knowledge and time with the Fraser Valley Woodturners.

When I was given the Henry Goosen memorial award, I was surprised and honoured. I felt, however, that there were other members more involved with the club than I was, especially in these last few years. Other interests have taken over, travel and seeing the world while we still can, has become a priority, and this has put woodturning on the back burner at least for now. Wood and woodworking is still a passion and it has been great to belong to a club, which shares this interest.

In our club and in it's early development, a fellow turner by the name of Henry Goosen had some rather unique qualities that epitomize club membership and this has helped make the club into the entity it has become. One of his outstanding qualities was sharing the knowledge of wood and woodturning. Henry was always experimenting with new techniques and would usually be the first to try a new idea we had all seen in a woodturning demonstration. He would be excited about this new concept. I thought that years ago we would run out of ideas, and that there were only so many ways to work wood. But it seems to be that there are infinite concepts, which expand on each other, Henry seemed to understand and embrace this concept.

Henry also liked to share his supply of wood with other turners and any tree worth saving would have Henry on the telephone giving location, size and type of tree. A telephone network was set up and many a turner would show up to a fallen tree like bees to honey.

The Christmas tree that we donated each year to a needy family usually came from Henry's yard. He had planted a great collection of unusual trees around his fishpond and oasis he had created on his 5 acre Mission property, over a period of 45 years. He is one of the few people I have known, who planted trees early enough in life that he could harvest them and turn them into bowls, etc., when he got older. I admired Henry for this and to me it was the ultimate passion for wood.

As our club has grown and changed over the last 12 years, and many new members have joined, I realize many members did not know Henry, and what a shame, for he has left a great example of what club membership is all about. There is still time for most of us, however, to follow Henry's example and plant our own “turning tree”

Other recipients of the Henry Goosen Award: Bob Burke, 1990 and John Krieger, 2000

P.S. Maybe we should plant a club tree every year or so?

Ted Lightfoot

A Loving Spoonful

Hello Turners. The following letter is passed along to us by Robert McConnell and Stan Clarke, on behalf of Karen Opas. A Loving Spoonful – an organization that provides meal services for people with AIDS. I think Bob or Stan will probably speak somewhat during an upcoming meeting and provide logistical details on when and how you can help this worthy cause.

Here's the website for the organization: <http://www.alovingspoonful.org/>.

Thanks,
Steve Hansen

Dear Friends:

Your participation in our biannual fundraiser, Project Empty Bowl, is a huge part of its success. With your help, the last event raised enough to provide over 10,000 meals to men, women and children living with AIDS. Project Empty Bowl 2002 will take place in March at the Canadian Craft Museum and we very much hope that you will again provide both small bowls (cereal, salad bowl size to be handed out at the door) or larger bowls (whatever takes your fancy, for our silent auction).

In 2000/2001 we delivered 108,000 free nutritious meals to approximately 325 clients plus 24 dependent children. Some of our dedicated volunteers also prepare a Sunday family-style dinner once a month at the Dr. Peter Centre and the Vancouver Native Health Society. These festive meals provide a social focus to help fight the isolating effects of long-term illness.

Your support is part of the concerted effort of thousands of individuals and businesses whose contribution of money, services, time and goods, nurtures the efforts of the clients, donors, volunteers and staff who comprise A Loving Spoonful. The fight against AIDS is not over. Last year it stole the lives of 54 clients. We take comfort in the knowledge that each meal tangibly demonstrates our community's commitment to alleviate the devastating effects of this disease. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Karen Opas
Volunteer Coordinator
